

How to join our Slack

A simple, step-by-step guide to joining Janelle Interiors on Slack from the email invitation. It takes about 5 minutes and you don't need any technical knowledge.

What is Slack?

Slack is a messaging app, a bit like WhatsApp for work. We use it to share updates, photos and questions about your project in one place, so nothing gets lost in long email chains.

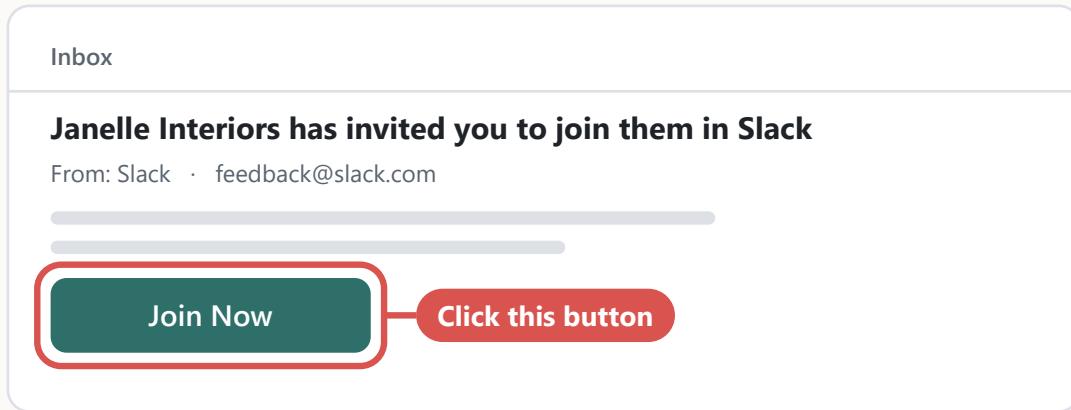

Before you start, you'll need

- 1 The invitation email from Slack. It is sent to the email address you gave us.
- 2 Access to that same email inbox, because Slack will email you a short code.
- 3 About 5 minutes, on a computer or a phone.

The pictures in this guide are simplified drawings. Your screen may look slightly different, but the buttons and words will be the same. The red outline always shows what to click or fill in.

1 Open the invitation email

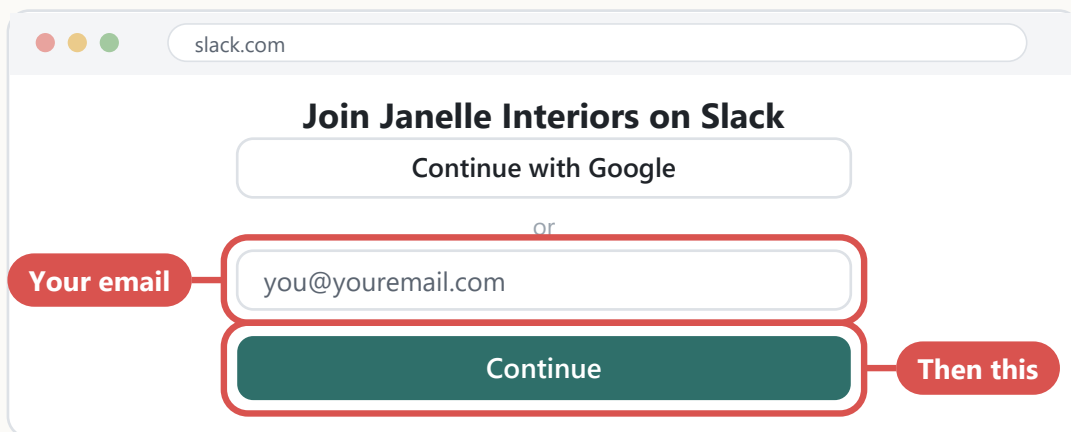

Look in your inbox for an email with the subject “Janelle Interiors has invited you to join them in Slack”. Open it and click the Join Now button.

Tip: Can't find it? Check your Spam or Junk folder, and the Promotions tab if you use Gmail. You can also search your inbox for the word Slack.

2 Enter your email address

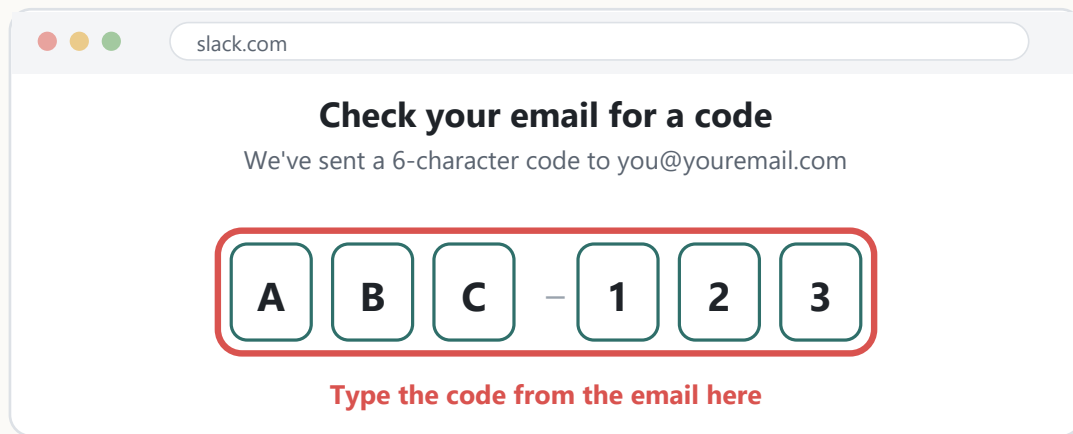

A web page opens. Type your email address and click Continue. If you use Gmail, you can click Continue with Google instead and skip step 3.

Important: Use the same email address the invitation was sent to. A different address won't be let in.

3 Type in the code Slack emails you

Slack emails you a 6-character code to prove the address is yours. Go back to your inbox, open the new email from Slack, and type the code into the boxes. You don't have to press anything else; it moves on by itself.

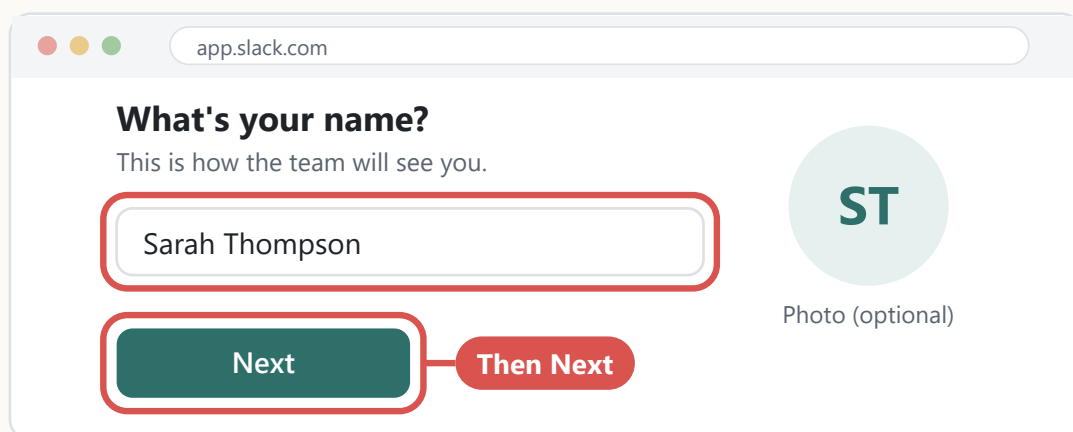

A screenshot of a web browser window with the address bar showing "slack.com". The main heading is "Check your email for a code". Below it, a message says "We've sent a 6-character code to you@youremail.com". In the center, there is a row of six input boxes. The first three boxes contain the letters "A", "B", and "C", and the next three contain the numbers "1", "2", and "3". A red rectangular box highlights the entire row of input boxes. Below the boxes, the text "Type the code from the email here" is displayed in red.

Tip: The code arrives within a minute. If it doesn't, check Spam again. You never need to create or remember a password.

4 Add your name

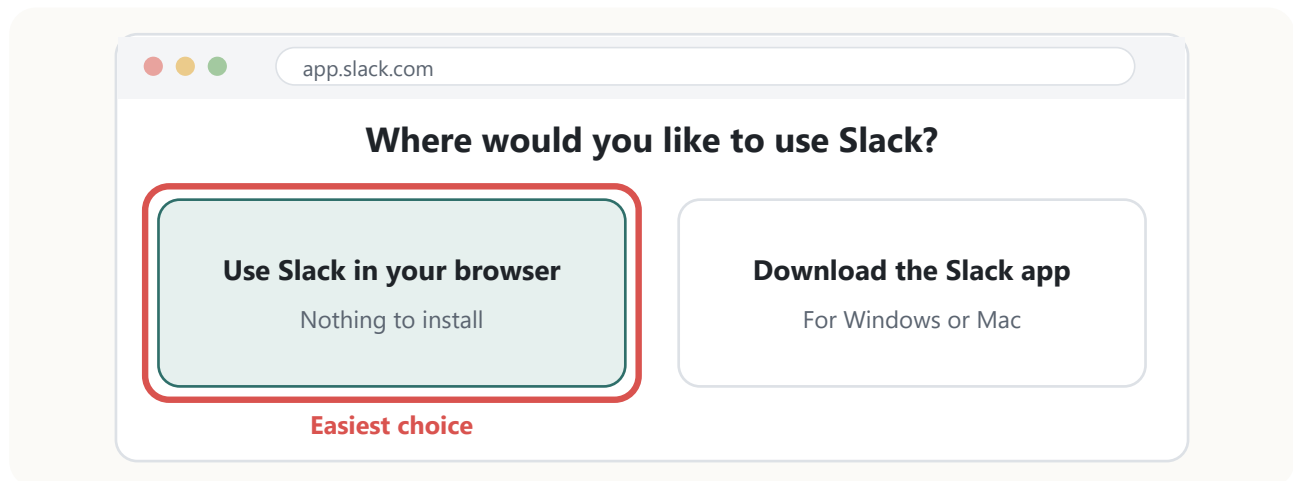

Type your full name so the team knows who you are, then click Next. Adding a photo is optional; you can skip it or add one later.

A screenshot of the Slack app setup page. The address bar shows "app.slack.com". The heading is "What's your name?" with the subtext "This is how the team will see you." Below this is a text input field containing "Sarah Thompson", which is highlighted with a red border. To the right of the input field is a circular placeholder for a profile picture with the initials "ST" in green. Below the input field are two buttons: a dark green "Next" button and a red "Then Next" button. The "Next" button is highlighted with a red border. Below the "Then Next" button, the text "Photo (optional)" is displayed.

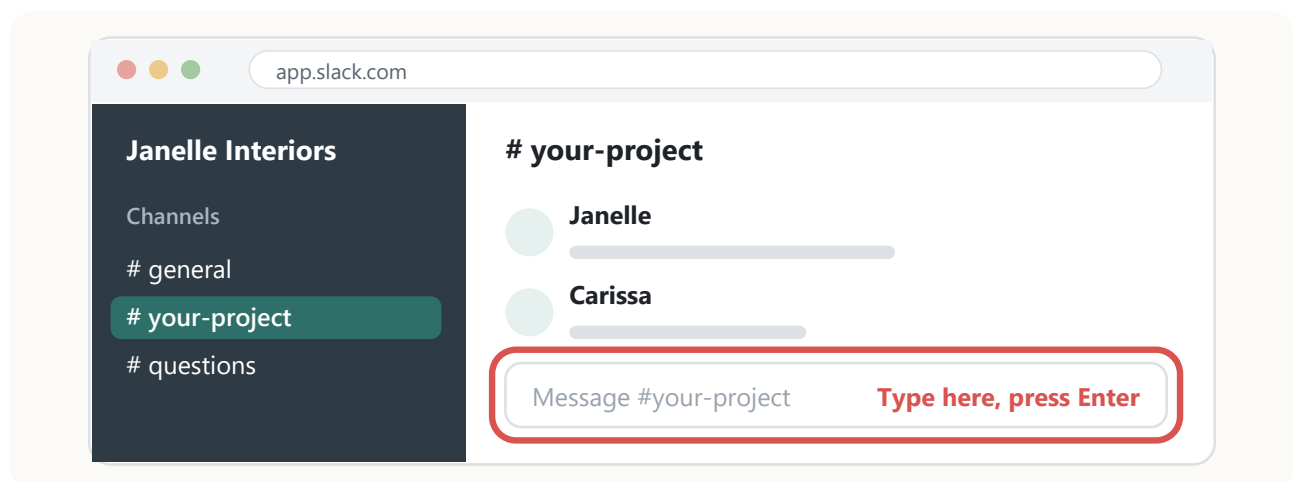

5 Choose how to open Slack

Slack may ask where you'd like to use it. The easiest choice is Use Slack in your browser. It works straight away with nothing to install. If you prefer, you can download the app instead.

6 You're in! Say hello

You'll see the channels on the left. Each channel is a group conversation about one topic. Click your project's channel, type a message in the box at the bottom and press Enter to send it.

Tip: To get back to Slack later, go to app.slack.com in your browser, or open the Slack app. Sign in with the same email address and a new code will be emailed to you.

Optional: get Slack on your phone

Install the free Slack app from the App Store (iPhone) or Google Play (Android). Open it, choose Sign in and enter the same email address. Slack emails you a code, just like in step 3.

Tip: On your phone, allow notifications when Slack asks. You'll then get a message whenever we post an update about your project.

Having trouble?

The most common questions, and what to do.

I never got the invitation email.

Check Spam, Junk and Gmail's Promotions tab. Still nothing? Tell us which email address you'd like to use and we'll send a new invitation.

It says my invitation has expired.

Invitations stop working after a while (usually 30 days). Just ask us and we'll send a fresh one.

It says I can't join with this email address.

You're probably using a different address from the one we invited. Sign in with the address the invitation was sent to, or ask us to invite your other address.

The code isn't arriving.

Wait a minute and check Spam. On the Slack page you can ask for the code to be sent again.

I closed the page halfway through.

That's fine. Click Join Now in the invitation email again and carry on from where you stopped.

Do I have to pay for Slack?

No. Joining our workspace is completely free for you.

Still stuck: If you get stuck at any point, just reply to our email or give us a call. We're happy to walk you through it.
